Mayor Horace D. Lyon will officially open the Eighth Annual Carmel Youth Follies on Friday night at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset School Auditorium. After the mayor has introduced Mr. P. A. McCreery, president of the Adult Board of the Carmel Youth Center, and Malcolm Burdis, president of the Youth Council, a 17-piece band under the direction of John Farr will take it away for an evening of 31 acts, lasting two hours. On Saturday night Mr. J. O. Handley, chairman of the Carmel Unified School Board, will open the variety show presented by teenage Youth Center members each spring. Proceeds this year will go to paint the Center inside and out, needed after seven years constant use.

Introducing the acts will be masters of ceremonies Jon and Jerry Stuefloten, John Morse and Mike Byrne.

Chorus lines, a boys' cancan dance, individual performances ranging from baton twirling and tumbling through ballet dancing studies to emotional and classical music will be offered during the two hours' entertainment, also a native Filipino dance, a monologue by Professor Van Treat and a special fashion show.

Two hundred Youth Center members will take part in the two evenings' entertainment. Script and costumes from the movies Oklahoma, Show Boat and Anything Goes are by courtesy of Bing Crosby. Lloyd Weer is co-ordinator; Bonnie Giles, director; Jack Giles, general manager. Choreography is by Joanne Nix; choral effects, John Farr; sound, Jack Belangee and Jim Meagher; music, Mausita Jennings; tumbling, Buzz Rainer. Stage manager is Michael Nesbitt, assisted by Martin McCauley, Pat Grimshaw and Doug McCauley. Lights are the responsibility of Mal Burdis, Dave Tobiasen and Reed Putnam. Assistant director is Gary Appleton; wardrobe mistress, Joan Engle; official photographer, Terry Dun.

Others assisting the Youth Center in staging this year's Youth Follies are Mrs. Connie Paddleford, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Balazs, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Hicks, Bill Giles, Ky Miyamoto, Mrs. Ellen Stuefloten, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bjornvold, James Buffington, Miss Babs Balzer, Tom Brosnan, Earl Beaverton, the Carmel Fire Department, Carmel Unified School District, Frank Girard, Ben Viljoen, Skip Heebner, Lloyd Miller and George Mosolf.

Above is the boat acquired by the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross being given a tryout by students in the Carmel High School swimming pool. The boat will be used strictly in the Red Cross summer junior life saving program, conducted by William Wakefield at the Carmel River lagoon.

The Red Cross has long wanted a small boat for water safety training for Carmel children.

ONLY FEHRING FILED

Ted Fehring is sole candidate for the vacancy on Carmel Unified School District Board. Deadline was yesterday with only Fehring filing for election on May 17.

Plan Board Can't Say No To Hofsas' 4-Story Addition

After exploring every legal possibility of denying a building permit for the four-story-in-back addition to Hofsas House Motel, and finding every way blocked, Carmel Planning Commission members yesterday afternoon voted four to two in favor of the addition.

They set a public hearing for May 15 at 4:00 o'clock on their revised amendment to the interim zoning ordinance controlling construction in C-2 (light industry) because the Planning Commission has decided to apply the restrictions to C-1 (business district), too. They also authorized letters reiterating their approval of the Hatton Canyon freeway route to be sent to State Senator Fred Farr, the State Division of Highways and the County Board of Supervisors.

The Planning Commission was prepared to deny the four-story addition to Hofsas House motel under the mandatory power granted it by the interim ordinance which allows the Commission to deny a building permit if it does not approve the architecture of the proposed structure.

The commissioners did not like the four-story addition, but found they could not exercise their interim ordinance rights as the Hofsas House addition was not a new site use, but an addition to an existing use. Therefore the commissioners had to act on the four-story addition under the provisions of the 1940 Carmel building ordinance which gave them no jurisdiction over achitectural appearance.

Commissioner Fred Keeble voiced the commission's feeling when he said the Hofsas House addition was "not in keeping with Carmel." Commissioner Florence Josselyn stated that although the four-story structure was "within legal rights, it was the type of construction Carmel did not want." When it came to the vote, Commissioners Josselyn and Jessie McGregor voted to deny a building permit, with Commissioners Keeble, Lee Gottfried, George Willox and Herbert Blanks voting reluc-

School Board Holds Off J.C. Temporarily

Carmel Unified School District isn't plunging precipitately into a tri-district Junior College, this week. At Tuesday night's school board meeting, School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell proposed:

"In view of the fact that a state study is necessary before formation of a junior college district, Dr. Wright's office be requested to make such a study on the usual cost basis, but without Carmel commitment as to formation of the district until after the results of the study are seen."

Two of the school board members, hot to buy the junior college, as soon as possible, Mrs. Julian Von Meier and J. O. Handley, were for declaring Carmel in, as the board can do by passing a resolution asking the state department of education to form the district. Board Members Glenn Leidig, Dr. Roderick Clayton and Chairman Gordon Campbell, couldn't see the wisdom of joining first and finding out afterwards.

Several citizens were on hand to ask questions: Francis Whitaker, who was interested in the proportion of Carmel District students who would attend the peninsula wide junior college, and expressed the thought that though Carmel district, with its highly assessed property, would be paying half the cost of the junior college, its students would form less than a third of the enrollment.

CARMEL HIGH TRACK TEAM AT PACIFIC GROVE TODAY

Coach Fred Rainer's high-flying track squad goes after another CCAL B-division track victory this afternoon at Pacific Grove when the Padres and Breakers clash in a dual meet. The Padres, off their fine performance against Hollister before the Easter Vacation period, rate the favorites role in today's interesting meet. Carmel has the most impressive record of all the B-division schools and is rated even-up with King City to cop the league meet. At Pacific Grove today, the Padres will run up against a surprise team which has been upsetting some of the big ones this season. In their last meet, the PG lads outran the Santa Cruz Cardinals to post an impressive victory over the Surf City thinclads. Coach Marty Baskin has a gift for getting everything out of his athletes and when he points for a win his boys find that extra something to get the job done.

Carmel's big three, Hampton Stewart, Clyde Klaumann and Art Wilkerson, are fit and ready for a topflight performance today and figure to notch first places in the 440, high-jump, 880, shot-put, and 220. This threesome has scored liberally in all the meets this season and should be at peak form for the Breakers. Carmel's brilliant pole-vault duo of Phil White and Phil Durbrow will threaten the school record in the high stick event when they vault on the perfect Pacific Grove runway. State champion pole-vaulters have been manufactured at the PG track and the vaulting pit and runway is considered the best in the area.

While the varsity meet appears to be Carmel's by quite a substantial margin, the lightweight tussle is dead even and will be won by the team which has the largest squad. Neither team has won a meet this season and the combined point total of both teams barely reaches 25. The Padre Babes will rely on first-place efforts by Frank Wallace, Tom Collins, Joey Foster and Nick Vertin plus a big scramble for the seconds and thirds which are so important in a dual meet.

CIRCLING THE BASES

A look at the Santa Ana Junior College baseball roster shows Bob Michela, former Carmel High catcher, as the starting receiver for the Dons. Bob was an outstanding player for the Padres, being selected on the All-CCAL squad last season and leading all the regulars in the hitting department. Reports from the southland show that Michela is hitting well over 300 in the tough junior college circuit and is rated one of the top maskmen in the league.

Good to see Lew McCreery piloting one of the teams in the newly-formed Carmel Little League. Always noted for his hustle and team spirit, the former Carmel High all-around athlete is the ideal type person to lead youngsters of little league age. Lew was a three-year letterman in baseball while at Carmel High and also participated in football and basketball while attending the Padre institution. Any team piloted by popular Lew will be a hustling hard-trying aggregation endowed with the finest principles of sportsmanship.

What does a pitcher have to do to win a baseball game? Take the case of Tim O'Shea, Carmel High's starting lefthander. The stocky lefty pitched a one-hitter against the classy Bellarmine Bells Monday afternoon only to lose the decision, 6 to 2. Going into the final inning, O'Shea had a no-hitter going but the Padres were behind, 4 to 2, as the result of a muffed outfield fly with the bases full. Besides pitching a brilliant one-hitter, Tim led the Carmel hitters with two hits in four trips to the plate.

The Great Diamond Robbery Review

BY MAX TADLOCK

Every earnest student of the theatre who has not already seen one of the classics of the early American drama, The Great Diamond Robbery, has a must date at the California First Theatre. This educational experience under the able direction of professor Rhea Diveley will be playing to more packed houses each weekend until mid-June.

If you thought that melodrama always had a black-mustachioed villain, see what can be done when a beautiful woman with an evil heart connives with a grandmotherly type who prefers daggers to arsenic and old lace. Oren Adams as the poisonous and poisoning Mrs. Bulford secures the family jewels of Count Garbiadoff whose enchanting accent is displayed by Stephan Marinescu. Her getting the jewels knocks Jack Kidwell as her husband out of the last five acts—poisoned you know.

His death is blamed on a sincere young bank teller Frank Kennet who is played with just the right amount of spinelessness by William Setzer. He of course has a blameless sweetheart Mary Lavelot who helps to clear his name. Despite the fact that Sally Holt who plays Mary "broke up" several times during some of the funnier scenes, she undoubtedly is a real comer in peninsula theatricals.

Out to "fence" the jewels and at the same time avenge the death of gangster son is little old Mother Rosenbaum ably played by Eleanor Mott. But the real hero of the play Detective Dick Brummage (the man of a thousand disguises) foils plot and counterplot in real Hawkshaw tradition. George B. Davidson gave a standout performance in the at-once comic and heroic role of the arm of the law.

Seemingly innumerable other characters pop in and out depending on the whims of the playwrights but without exception all were well done. Pop Smith looked almost typecast as the faithful butler Philip. Sandy Scardina was properly menacing as the luxury-loving brother of Mrs. Bulford. The attending physician to the poisoned was played by Morrison Defty who joined Oren Adams in one of the best scenes in the drama. Mary's unbalanced Grandfather Lavelot was convincingly done by Cecil Haskell. Janet Mickley was the exuberant streetgirl and stoolpigeon, Peggy Daly. Harry Warren was believable as the ex-ward heeler Senator McSorker. Joseph Pardus was one of the Senator's hangers-on. Charles Scardina was the comic Sheeny Ike in league with the thieves as was Staten Johnston playing Jimmy McCune the bartender. And Mme. Mervaine, the luscious friend of the count was played by La Verne Seeman.

Star performance of the evening was given by the versatile Madeleine Hicks. Always excellent, she gave one of her best performances to date as the tipsy Mrs. O'Geogan.

Fitting end to an excellent evening of entertainment was the Olio. And of these variety numbers by members of the cast, several stand out. Under the twinkling eyes of M. C. Jack Kidwell, the troupers presented their version of the village choir which rocked the house with laughter as did Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works later. Staten Johnston, a young and handsome ballad singer with a startlingly good voice, was given an ovation but unfortunately no arrangements could be made for an encore. Stephan Marinescu and little Charles Brown did two accordion selections which were also crowd pleasers.

Costuming for the entire evening was exceptionally well done under the direction of Rhoda Johnson. Settings were executed with imagination by Richard Lofton and Charles Thomas.

Nellie Feliz

Mrs. Nellie Feliz died on Sunday after a brief illness at the home of her daughter Mrs. Laura Collins in Salinas. She was the widow of Frederick P. Feliz of Carmel Valley who died on March 28.

Mrs. Feliz was born on March 2, 1872, near Salinas, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steffani. She attended school in the Natividad district and in Carmel Valley where her parents operated a cattle ranch. Her late husband was a school teacher in the Valley. Later he became a prominent attorney in Monterey and Salinas. Mr. and Mrs. Feliz were married for 66 years. They lived in Salinas before retiring to their home Camp Steffani in Carmel Valley in 1935.

Survivors are a son, Joseph P. Feliz of Salinas; four daughters, Mrs. Harriet Call of Saratoga, Mrs. Nell Grout, Mrs. Adele Eklund and Mrs. Laura Collins, all of Salinas; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning in the Muller Mortuary in Salinas followed by burial in the Garden of Memories.

New Show Opens At Forest Theater In The Ground

Tennessee William's Summer and Smoke, a powerful drama of love and frustration in a southern town, will open in the Theatre in the Ground, beneath the Forest Theatre outdoor stage at Mountainview and Santa Rita streets, Carmel, Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Directed by Cole Weston, the play will run four weekends. The complicated set, consisting of two exterior and two interior scenes, was designed by Erica Franke.

In the major starring role of Alma, frustrated and neurotic daughter of a minister, is Valarie Furlong, recently seen in Strange Bedfellows at the Golden Bough Theatre and in La Ronde at the Theater in the Ground.

Bob Martinson, familiar to Peninsula theatre-goers for his roles in High Ground, Separate Rooms, The Tender Trap, and He Who Gets Slapped, will be seen in the part of Dr. John, confused and carousing son of the village doctor.

The part of Reverend Weinmueller, Alma's father, will be played by Ernest Friez, a newcomer to peninsula theatre. The role of Mrs. Wienmueller, Alma's mother will be portrayed by Gracecarol Bostwick, veteran of numerous local productions.

Other cast members are Caryl Thomas, Tony Lunt, Mil Murphy, Allen Van Nuys, Jean T. McKinney, Jane Yarborough, Jack James, Sam Karas, and Alan Wehn.

Producer for the play is Floyd Adams Jr.; publicity chairman, Mrs. William Arleigh Smith; and tickets and sales chairman, Kathy Kollmer. Posters were designed by Jack James. Ted Weston is in charge of lighting. Properties will be arranged by Margaret Phillips. Helen Weston will be house manager and Jack James will function as stage manager during the performances.

New Pebble Beach P. O. To Be Built By Aug. 1

Pebble Beach is to have a new Post Office, according to word received this week from the Post Office Department. A new building of 2,208 square feet is to be constructed on the south side of the 17 Mile Drive between the curvature of the Drive and Cypress Drive. Del Monte Properties Co. was successful bidder for construction of the building which will be leased by the Post Office Department for ten years, effective August 1, 1957.

Raymond Grabill

Raymond Lee Grabill died on Tuesday morning in a local rest home after a long illness. He had lived in Carmel for 26 years in the home which he built on Carmel Point on Seventeenth Street in 1906.

Mr. Grabill was born in Red Oaks, Iowa, on August 14, 1879. He was a fruit grower near Sunnyvale spending summers in Carmel until his marriage to Nora Nichols on February 1, 1931, in Del Monte Chapel. The couple made the Carmel Point house their home and Mr. Grabill moved here permanently.

He became a builder and constructed many houses in Carmel and Carmel Valley. He also built Agnew State Hospital.

Mr. Grabill was a member of Carmel Lodge 680, F&AM, Monterey Chapter 239, Order of the Eastern Star, and Golden Rule Shrine 43, W.S.J. of Monterey.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Nora Grabill, an active member and former secretary of the Carmel Art Association, known for her driftwood sculptures; his daughter, Mrs. William Kneass of Monterey; a granddaughter, Mrs. Peter Vignoli, and a great-grandson, Peter James Vignoli, both of Fort Lee, New Jersey.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon in the Paul Funeral Chapel. Carmel Masonic Lodge and Chaplain John R. Wright officiated. Interment followed in the Little Chapel-by-th-Sea Crematorium.

Friends wishing to make donations in memory of Mr. Grabill may do so in the form of contributions to their favorite charities or the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Babs Richardson Delights Fans In One-Woman Show

by Max Tadlock

Playing before an overflow crowd at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre, Babs Richardson opened a one-woman two-night stand April 23. And the Light-Board Fund was not the only thing which received a big boost. Her audience obviously came because they were appreciative of the roles she had played before on the peninsula, and they left even more appreciative of her talent.

Mrs. Richardson opened her program with a series of sketches of People You May Have Met, playing before a simple backdrop and with only a table and various headcoverings as props. Delightful in every scene was her subtle donning of character at the moment of donning headgear.

The second portion of the program was the starkly presented Before Breakfast, Eugene O'Neill's one-act play of the wife who drives her husband to suicide. Nicely staged with a minimum of props and clutter, this play gave full rein to Mrs. Richardson's ability to bring a dramatic situation to its climax. Despite the rather leaden tone of O'Neill's dialogue in certain places, she was able to give real life to the play.

The final portion of the program was a series of extracts from four famous plays. And it was for these that Mrs. Richardson received her ovation. As Mrs. Midget (from Outward Bound) her pleading for the custody of her son had many of her audience in tears. Her Lady Bracknell was only as good as one regards The Importance of Being Earnest. But as Birdie in The Little Foxes she reached the high point of entire evening for this reviewer. This performance was a perfect little jewel revealing in each facet some new depth of the unhappy woman portrayed.

For her last portrait, she chose the closing scene from Victoria Regina. The regal old lady was receiving the plaudits of her people at her 60th anniversary. Like George M. Cohan's flagwaving, it was a good closing choice because the emotional punch made one almost want to stand and propose, "God save the Queen and Babs Richardson too.'"

Well done, Lady.

MILITANT CONSERVATION

At this time of year important hearings are being held almost daily in Congress and the State Legislatures on conservation matters. Alerts about them are constantly being sent out by conservation organizations. This is the period when militant conservationists should take pen in hand and spend a few minutes daily participating in this legislative activity.

There are two kinds of conservation — scientific and militant. There is a definite relationship between them. Students of conservation who reach the scientific plateau are qualified to make an effort to reach the militant level. Some make the effort; many more are satisfied to stop where they are.

Scientific conservation is limited to a study of facts—a body of proven material knowledge. The comparatively new science of ecology—the study of the interrelationships of the plant and the animal world and how man affects it or is affected by it—bases scientific conservation. Militant conservation evaluates these facts and proceeds to take appropriate steps to make use of them for the greatest public good. It involves the ability to make up one's mind, when all the facts are at hand, and then to act.

More often than not militant conservation is concerned with legislation. When known principles of conservation are applied to private property, the law has not interfered much in the past. However, with the present increase of population and the problems of human relationship brought on by it, a certain regulation of land use by legislative means has become a necessity. Here the dissatisfaction of property owners brings in controversy. People either take sides or they quietly stay on the scientific plateau and hope that right may win in the end. The same reaction usually occurs, whether the property in question is public or private.

I should like to plead for more militancy in conservation. I should like to see more people make an effort, first, to reach the scientific plateau, then, using their independent reasoning powers, try even harder to reach the militant level. They will get very little help from any of the popular magazines, or even from most newspapers. Editors consistently shy away from controversies on conservation matters, regardless of the rightness of the cause. Most study groups sponsored by public-spirited organizations adopt the same attitude.

One of the most effective actions, where questions of legislation are involved, is writing letters to congressmen. Every letter from a militant conservationist to his congressman, or to the chairman of a congressional committee, has a much greater impact than he may imagine. A large number of them piled up on a congressman's desk is almost sure to produce results, especially if he has no strong opinions on the subject in the first place.

Another way of getting militant opinions before the public is by means of Letters to the Editor. Newspaper or magazine editors will print letters on controversial subjects, when they will not accept articles or write editorials about them. Letters to the Editor are read by more readers than almost any other part of the paper or magazine.

The purpose of this week's column, then, is to appeal to everyone who loves his native land to fit himself to defend it from spoliation, to become a militant conservationist with a carefully thought-out plan of action.

TOWN HOUSE PROGRAM

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Gleb Drujina, a delightful speaker, will come to Town House to review the book America Remembers, edited by Sam Rapport and Patricia Shartle. The sub-title suggests the contents of the book: Our Best Loved Customs and Traditons. Tea will be served after the program.

NEW HIGHLANDS RESIDENT

James George Ekvall, born at Fort Ord Hospital on April 9, joined the family of Lieutenant and Mrs. Leslie D. Ekvall of Corona Road, Carmel Highlands. The Ekvalls came here in September from Los Angeles when Lieutenant Ekvall was stationed as a medical officer at the Naval Air Facility in Monterey. They expect to remain here for two years.

James' grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. George A. Nelson of Fresno, who have both been here to meet their new grandson; and Captain and Mrs. L. D. Ekvall living in Puerto Rico where Captain Ekvall is stationed with the Navy Medical Corps.

The new baby has a sister, Jennifer, two and a half, and a brother, David, 17 months old.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

At last we have the Harrison Collection entirely behind glass doors and we are taking an inventory to see how much of the collection has been left for the community by the book collectors with large coat pockets. First checking shows many books gone from the sections on psychology, philosophy, and religion. Two Bibles seem to be missing. Who takes Bibles? The poor in spirit, perhaps.

A book entitled California Social Welfare should be a great help for people searching for exact information on such problems as old-age assistance, community chest programs, heart and cancer fund drives, aids to widows, children, the blind, and the disabled. Vaughn Bornet did the study under a commission by the Commonwealth Club of California. There are included here vast quantities of statistics, in case you are writing a paper or making a speech. For most of us the book's value will be in the chapters of solid information which it has on all these closely related subjects.

Another type of aid to widows is explained in the book Learning to Live as a Widow, by Marion Langer. Dr. Langer is a sociologist and a widow. She believes that there are positive steps which a widow may take to build for herself a new and satisfying pattern of life. This book should help many a woman over the emotional shock, and the difficult adjustments of widowhood. From the library's standpoint, the difficulty is in getting the book into the hands of women who need it. Perhaps you could help us with that problem.

Suburban developments, rows of tract houses all slightly different in appearance but alike in lacking adequate storage space, picture windows with no view, easy credit with high payments, in other words the housing problem as we have it today, all this and more are in John Keats' new book The Crack in the Picture Window. This is an angry book, almost too smart at times, but pertinent to our day, and a book we have been needing.

Dr. Jack Ferguson is a physician in Traverse City, Michigan, and he understands insanity because he was once a patient in a hospital for the insane. He has had great success in treating insanity by means of the new drugs, and vast amounts of love and human kindness. Paul DeKruif has written a book about Dr. Ferguson, and called it A Man Against Insanity.

We now have The Road to Miltown, or Under the Spreading Atrophy, by S. J. Perelman. No need to say anything more. It is enough to remark that this is Perelman's latest book, which some say is his best, and that we have it.

There are six new novels this week, and one collection of excellent short stories by Mark Van-Doren, who is, you will remember, the illustrious Pulitzer prize winning father of the young man who won all that money on television.

Among the novels is a western story, The Hell Kid by Locke, and there is one mystery by Coxe which is called Murder on Their Minds. Other titles are The Wild Swan by Margaret Kennedy, A Small Fire by Gladys Schmitt, Son of Dust by Prescott, and The Flying Fox by Mary McMinnies. See you around the library?

CYNTHIA IN HONOR SOCIETY

Cynthia Margaret Cox of Carmel is among the 34 freshman coeds chosen for membership in the Oregon State college chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, national honor society for freshman women. Students must earn at least a B plus grade average during their first two quarters of college to be eligible for membership in the society.

Cynthia, a freshman majoring in elementary education, is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel Cox of Carmel. She is a 1956 graduate of Carmel high school and last year's editor of the student edition of the Pine Cone.

These coats are exceptional in every way! The fabric from the famous house of Einiger is a rich, textured, silken tweed with the look of the highest priced Italian imports.

They are repeating the showing of the pictures at the request of those persons unable to be present at the first showing several weeks ago.

Included in the first group of pictures are scenes photographed in Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain and Switzerland. The second group shows Scandinavia, Finnish Lapland and the fjords.

WAC Talk on African Countries

Three little-known countries of South Africa, Batsutoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland, will be the subject of a talk by Otto Morgenstern Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel High School cafeteria, when he will speak on High Commission Territories. All three countries are now British protectorates. This talk is one of the current study series on Africa planned by Mrs. Howard Clark, study group chairman for the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula, and presented as a public service by the local council and the Carmel Adult School. It is open to the public without charge.

Born in Vienna, Austria, Mr. Morgenstern moved to South Africa in 1938 and lived there, chiefly in Swaziland, until the end of 1944. He has traveled extensively in Europe, the Union of South Africa, Swaziland and Mozambique. Part of his undergraduate work was done at the University of London, and his graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley, where he is now completing his doctoral dissertation on Problems of Economic Development in South Africa. He was a research economist at U.C. before taking his present position in the economics department at the University of San Francisco.

Filming Finished at Lobos

Shooting of Upon a Sunday, artistic film being made at Point Lobos under the direction of Nick Cominos of Twentieth Century Fox Studios, was finished this weekend. The picture will have its first showing here at the Hill Theatre in the early summer according to Bob Read, one of the actors in the film, and manager of the Hill and Golden Bough Theatres.

The picture portrays happenings on a Sunday at Point Lobos State Park. Families arrive for picnics, writers stroll and chat about the rocks, a beautiful socialite flits by in a Jaguar. Acting in the film have been Ephraim Doner, Henry and Eve Miller, Missy Lofton and Chase Drake as the Jaguar lady.

The background atmosphere of the film will be provided by the reading of Robinson Jeffers' poetry. Included in the film is a sequence of Poet Jeffers above one of Point Lobos' rocky ocean filled crevices.

To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Cook:

What could be more
Out of its element
Than that preposterous
Pink Elephant
Pirouetting by a
Grape stake fence
In an area sacred to Residence?
This is an hour for Eloquence!

And O! that it plans to
Peddle its potions
So close to where Ike went
For Sabbath devotions!

Just let it get its
Trunk in the door
And it won't be very Long before
We'll pay for this pink
Effrontery . . .
You'll be done in, Carmel,-
By-the-ABC!

James Moody Wins Inheritance Suit

Superior Court Judge Anthony Brazil yesterday ruled in favor of James Moody of Carmel in a suit brought against Moody by his brother, Edward Moody of New Hampshire.

Judge Brazil said that evidence indicated James Moody had taken exceptional care of his mother, Mrs. Emma Moody, who lived with him until her death a year ago.

Moody's brother maintained that James Moody of Carmel prevented his mother from changing her will to benefit the brother. In the will the late Mrs. Moody left only $500 of her $105,000 estate to the brother, the bulk of the rest of it to James Moody. Edward Moody sought $45,000 of the estate in his suit. James Moody was represented by attorneys Malcolm Millard and Lewis Fenton.

CARMEL REALTORS INITIATE LISTING SERVICES

The Carmel Board of Realtors at their regular meeting April 10, 1957, actively put in effect the recently adopted Listing Service.

Mr. Leo Tanous, president of the Carmel Board of Realtors, explains this listing service is designed primarily to facilitate a faster sale of property for owners and will save them considerable inconvenience, time and expense. By listing a property for sale with one individual office or representative of the Carmel Board of Realtors, Inc., the listing will automatically be released to all members. Thereby providing the immediate co-operation of approximately 30 real estate offices and their sales staff.

At the time the listing is placed all pertinent facts and information regarding the property is obtained in detail from the owner, so he is assured that his property will accordingly, be offered to prospective buyers with the minimum of personal inconvenience.

The regular rate of commission will continue in effect and will include the additional services offered under the new listing method.

MASONIC SOCIAL MEETING

Carmel Lodge No. 680 F&AM will have a social meeting and potluck dinner in the Masonic Temple on Friday evening starting at 7:00 o'clock. The program following the dinner is an observance of public school week. All Eastern Stars and Masons are invited to attend.

PRELUDE TO SPRING

Something as yet unnamed is in the air . . .
The sun would sing of it in scattered green
Against a depth of branches that would dare
Their buds before a full-time leaf is seen.
And who is blind or deaf when sharp beaks fling
Feathers and moss without too much ado,
As though birds know their nesting-time the Spring
Is just around the corner in plain view,
After a trough of Winter snow and rain
Has drenched the valleys and the mountain slopes
To a new life, to seeding time again,
To bring the tangled vines, the twisted ropes
Of color that the heart and mind would hold
For future reference when Spring is old.

—CLAIRE AVEN THOMSON.

MILLAR, LINDSAY-OLIVER SYMPHONY BENEFIT

Tickets are now on sale at music stores in Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove for the benefit concert for the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra being given by Gregory Millar and Mary Lindsay-Oliver at the Nix Studio-Theatre Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. It is hoped the public will take this rare opportunity of assisting the County Symphony and of hearing its conductor sing.

The program will consist of one group of piano classics and a number of Lindsay-Oliver's compositions. Two of these will be excerpts from her biggest work for soloists, choruses, full symphony and ballet called The New Day which has had much favorable comment from leading musicians both in America and Europe. Conductor Millar will sing several of Lindsay-Oliver's songs and be accompanied by his wife Roslyn Franz who has twice played concertos with the orchestra here and charmed the public.

Helen Shutes and Carol Marsh of the orchestra personnel will assist with violin and cello and a clarinetist, to be announced later, appearing in several character pieces. On the Moonlit Shore—a Berceuse that was inspired by Carmel Bay—is a short trio for violin, cello and piano. Being the first public performance in Carmel of the Pine Cone's music critic and booster of local music, there will undoubtedly be many who will want to hear Mary Lindsay-Oliver.

The Nix auditorium holds 200 persons. It is at Junipero and Eighth Streets and is a charming place in which to listen to music. It is being generously donated by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Nix for this interesting event.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Man's God-given right of progress will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled, Probation After Death, will include the following from Isaiah (9:2): The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

The following selection will be among those read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy (233:1) Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them. This is an element of progress, and progress is the law of God, whose law demands of us only what we can certainly fulfil.

WATER

These lovely birds know without questioning that this bowl which stands in the midst of the garden contains water for them to drink.

We know without questioning that all the water we need for any purpose can be obtained simply by turning the handle of the faucet.

And our faith in the immediacy of an abundant water supply goes deeper than the faucet. We know without questioning that a vast system of pipe lines, pumps, and reservoirs will function at our command. And this faith implies faith in the men who planned and built the system and in those who maintain and operate it for our benefit.

The value of such faith is without price!

tant "Ayes."

The Planning Commission C-2 building restrictions extended to the entire business zone requires the public hearing on May 15. In the proposed amendment to the interim zoning ordinance which will apply to both C-1 and C-2 districts the Planning Commission will recommend to the City Council that no structure shall be erected or altered for a residential, dwelling, or habitation use except on a conditional use basis.

Each dwelling unit in both districts shall not exceed 600 square feet per 1,000 square feet of land. Each site used for such a conditional use shall have an area of not less than 1,000 square feet for each dwelling unit, not less than 400 square feet of each 1,000 square feet of the site area shall be open space devoted to off-street parking and landscaping. One off-street parking space shall be provided for each dwelling unit. A driveway shall be provided for access to the parking, also a service area for the keeping of garbage receptacles, and the balance of the open area landscaped. However, walkways and other like improvements may be made if necessary to a business, upon approval of the commission.

Front setbacks in both districts under the amendment will be two and one-half feet. Staggered setbacks will be allowed equal to or greater in area to a uniform two and one-half set back along the entire front of the structure exclusive of sideyards, walkways or driveways.

The letters to Senator Farr, the Highway Department and the County Board of Supervisors are necessary, thought the Planning Commission, because after the commission's extensive study of the proposed Highway 1 freeway route, the commissioners decided the Hatton Canyon route most favorable to Carmel. They do not want enlargement of existing Highway 1, adjacent to the city and going past the high school, as suggested by Senator Farr. Commissioner Gottfried stated "we do not want Highway 1 to become a freeway."

The Planning Commission decided to meet with Building Inspector Adams on April 30 at 4:30 o'clock in study session to explore possibilities of controlling multi-story buildings and blank walls in Carmel's business district.

"We must find a means to prevent future defeats," said Commissioner Keeble referring to the earlier unwilling commission action granting a building permit for the four-story addition to Hofsas House motel.

In routine action the Planning Commission yesterday afternoon gave Mr. and Mrs. George Walker permission to divide property on Crespi Lane into three irregular building sites; granted building permits for additions to Sade's Restaurant, Tuck Box Restaurant, Horizon Inn and Beverly Terrace Inn. They held over for further consideration J. O. Handley's application for an addition to the Carmel Builders Supply yard office on Junipero Street. Commissioners asked the City Council to appoint one of their members to the study committee for an area planning committee; asked an extension of time to their next regular meeting for adopting the General Plan and sent a letter of commendation to Monterey County Planning Commission regarding that body's hillside development study.

Armin Hansen

Armin Hansen, N.A., died on Tuesday evening in a local hospital after a long illness. He had been a resident of the peninsula since 1913.

Mr. Hansen was one of the founders of the Carmel Art Association and twice served as president of the group. He was also a member of the San Francisco Art Association, the Societe Royal de Beaux Arts of Brussels, the Society of Etchers and Printmakers of California, the National Academy of Design and many other art groups.

His symbolic picture Tree of Life hangs in Sunset School library with a sensitive word interpretation of the picture, written by Mr. Hansen, and called The Span of Life, framed beside it.

He was born in San Francisco on October 23, 1886, the son of Hermann Wendelborg Hansen, Danish painter of cowboy and Indian pictures, and of a French Huguenot mother. After two years of study in Germany at the Royal Academy of Art in Stuttgart, starting in 1906, and further study in Paris and Belgium, Mr. Hansen went to sea for four years as crew member on a trawler in the North Sea. This seafaring period gave Mr. Hansen a keen knowledge of boats and a deep love of the ocean in all its moods. Boats and the sea were the subject of many of his paintings.

Mr. Hansen returned to California in 1912 as a member of the University of California faculty for one year. In 1913 he came to Monterey attracted by the fishing fleet, the harbor and the surrounding scenery, all subjects for his work.

He exhibited at the Chicago Art Institute, the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts, the National Academy of Design, and won the International Gold Medal for an etching in Paris in 1938 and the Chicago Society of Etchers' first award in 1947, among many other awards.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Frances Hansen of Monterey; a son Wendelborg (Motje) Hansen of Seattle, Washington, and a granddaughter, Karyl Hansen, also of Seattle.

Funeral services will be held on Friday morning at 11:00 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium, the Reverend David Hill officiating. Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Flowers are requested to be omitted but those wishing to make donations in memory of Mr. Hansen are asked to do so in the form of contributions to their favorite charity or the church of their choice.

The Living Room Is Next Play At Circle Theatre

As their next production, with opening night May 3, the Golden Bough Players under the direction of Charles Thomas, will present The Living Room by Graham Greene.

The Living Room is a tragedy, about a forthright young girl who falls in love with an older, married man. At her mother's death she reluctantly takes up residence in a weird old mansion with two grimly morbid maiden aunts and an uncle who is a priest. Her affair is soon forced into the open. The transition from carefree childhood to agonized womanhood in a few weeks is more than she can bear.

The girl struggles fiercely against all the forces within her and without, until she is entirely overwhelmed by the descending tragedy.

For Love or Money, current attraction of the Circle, will have its final performances on this weekend.

James Birks

Besides his son in Carmel, Mr. Birks is survived by his wife, Sarah, of Carmel; another son, Howard M. Birks living in Michigan; a brother, Frederick W. Birks of Huron, South Dakota; two sisters, Mrs. Ellin Petersen of Carpenter, South Dakota, and Miss Ethel Birks living in England; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 o'clock on Friday afternoon in the Dorney and Farlinger Funeral Home. Burial will be in the Oak Ridge Cemetery in Chicago.

Those wishing to make contributions in memory of Mr. Birks are asked to do so in the form of donations to the American Red Cross.
